Matthew Schneider, Director of Technology, Postworks, New York

David Salamone, Director of Post Production, HBO Studio and Broadcast Operations

Ingest of media for post is increasingly in a file format, either shipped on flash/optical media, firewire drives or uploaded in a variety of compressed formats. How is ingest of an ever expanding menu of files expedited?

Once the editor begins to assemble material, sequences exist in the digital domain. Are we making progress in the area of Interoperability between the tools used in Post? Editors, post production technical directors and engineers will discuss the state of the art, the tools and techniques that succeed in streamlining the process of editorial today, and their wish lists for tomorrow.
